Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
Title I--Tax-Exempt Entity Leasing	The bill contains rules relating to allocations by partnerships with both taxable and tax-exempt partners.	The language of that provision would be clarified.
Title II--Life Insurance Tax Act of 1904
1. Dividends received deduction (sec. 805(a) (4))	The bill allows a company the full dividends-received deduction for 100-percent dividends, except to the extent that such dividends are distributions out of tax-exempt interest or dividends which are not 100-percent dividends.	Extend similar treatment to dividends received by a foreign company which would be 100-percent dividends if section 1504(b) (3) did not apply for purposes of section 243(b) (5).
2. Definition of "tentative LICTI" for a controlled group (sec. 806(c))	The bill provides that all life companies in a controlled group shall be treated as one life company for purposes of computing the tentative LICTI for the group, whether or not the group can file a consolidated return.	Provide specific regulatory authority for the Secretary to prescribe proper adjustments to be made in the application of this provision so that a loss from operations of any member of a group will reduce the tentative LICTI from such group only once.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
3. Computation of tax reserves and prescribed method (sec. 807(d) (3) (iii)).	The bill provides that the tax reserve method for noncancellable A&U contracts is a 2-year full preliminary term method.	Provide a special rule to allow a company to use the net level reserve method in computing reserves for noncancellable A&U, for tax purposes, if it was using such method as of 12-31-82 and continues to use such method for annual statement reporting purposes.
4. Computation of tax reserves and use of prevailing commissioners' standard tables (sec. 807(d) (5)).	The bill provides a special rule for contracts issued before 1948 when no commissioners' standard tables were issued.	In addition to the current special rule for contracts issued before 1948, (1) provide general regulatory authority to prescribe appropriate tables if no standard table is applicable when a contract is issued, and (2) require the use of the table which generally yields the lowest reserves if there are multiple prevailing commissioners' standard tables that can be used for a particular reserve.

5. Computation of an additional reserve for qualified substandard risks (sec. 807(e)(5)).	The bill provides that a qualified substandard risk means any substandard risk if, among other things, "the net surrender value under the contract may not be used to systematically pay premium charges for such risk."	Clarify that a substandard risk meets this requirement if "the net surrender value under the contract is not regularly used to pay premium charges for such risk."
6. Determination of the equity base for purposes of applying the differential earnings rate (sec. 809(a)(4)).	The bill provides that a company's equity base shall include the excess of statutory reserves over tax reserves.	Clarify that for purposes of computing the equity base, statutory reserves shall not include any reserve attributable to deferred and uncollected premiums if such items have not been included in life insurance gross income.

Item

Committee Bill

Suggested Change

7. Definition of company's share and policyholders' share (sec. 812(F)).

The bill provides that the term "gross investment income" shall not include 100-percent dividends.

Clarify that the term also shall not include any dividends that would be 100-percent dividends but for the fact that the recipient is a foreign company.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
8. (a) Reserves computed on the new basis: fresh start (bill sec. 216(b) (2)).	The bill provides that no adjustments attributable to a change of basis in computing reserves before 1984 shall be taken into account after 1983.	Retain the same provision with respect to decreases in reserves. Modify the provision with respect to increases in reserves to allow such adjustments to be taken into account to the extent that the amount of the adjustments that would be taken into account after 1983 exceeds the amount of any fresh start adjustment allowed under the bill with respect to the contracts to which reserve increase was attributable. Also, clarify that no premium income shall be recognized to the extent such premium is directly related to an increase in reserve adjustment disallowed under the provision as modified.
(b) Reinsurance transactions, etc., after September 27, 1983 (bill sec. 216(b) (3)).	The bill provides that the fresh start provisions would not apply to reserves transferred (or expenses transferred) under reinsurance agreements entered into, modified, or terminated, nor to reserve strengthening, after September 27, 1983.	Clarify that denial of the fresh start relates only to such activities occurring after September 27, 1983, and before January 1, 1984.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
9. Transitional rules for life insurance contracts issued during 1984 (sec. 7702(i)(1)).	The bill provides that any contract issued during 1984 shall be treated as meeting the requirements of the new definition of life insurance if such contract would meet the present requirements of section 101(f) or if such contract (that is not a flexible premium contract) would meet the requirements of the new cash value accumulation test by substituting 3 percent for 4 percent.	Expand the transitional rules to cover any contract issued during 1984 pursuant to an existing plan of insurance if the contract (whether or not a flexible premium contract) would meet the requirements of section 101(f), or if such contract would meet certain definitional rules provided for irreplaceable life contracts.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
10. Limitation on interest deduction in case of life insurance loans (sec. 264(d)).	The bill provides an overall limitation on interest deduction in the case of life insurance loans determined by multiplying the annual deficiency interest rate by the applicable dollar amount. For individuals, the applicable dollar amount would be $250,000 ($500,000 for a joint return); for corporations, etc., the applicable dollar amount would be $500,000 x the number of qualified lives.	Clarify that a qualified life means any individual for which the corporation, etc., held a policy of life insurance, had an outstanding life insurance loan, and the face amount of such policy is not less than 10 percent of the highest face amount of a policy carried by the corporation, etc., on the life of an individual having an outstanding life insurance loan.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
Title IV--Simplification
1(a). Transfer of property between spouses or incident to divorce (sec. 422)	Transfers of property between spouses or incident to divorce will be non-taxable, carryover basis transactions.	Clarify that investment tax credit will not be recaptured.
(b). Gift and estate tax treatment (sec. 426)	Under present law, there is no gift tax liability for transfers of property to spouse in settlement of marital or property rights pursuant to written agreement where divorce occurs within 2 years of agreement. The bill provides estate tax deduction for transfers pursuant to these written agreements.	Extend rules to cover transfers pursuant to agreements executed within one year after divorce occurs.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
2. "At-risk" rules for losses. (sec. 432)	The bill provides that an active trade or business of a subchapter C corporation (other than a personal holding company or personal service corporation) will not be subject to any at-risk rules. A trade or business will be required to have three, full-time non-owner employees, one full-time employee actively managing the business, and its "out-of-pocket" business expenses must exceed 15 percent of gross income.	(1) The corporate partner rules would be expanded to apply to all general corporate partners. (2) The present rules relating to the treatment of personal holding companies as not being a component member of an affiliated group of corporations would be eliminated and replaced with a rule that the income of a personal holding company could not be offset by the losses allowed by reason of the trade or business exception to the at-risk rule.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
3 (a). Definition of resident alien. (sec. 451)	Green card holders may be present in the United States for up to ten days without losing nonresident alien (NRA) status. The bill treats certain students, teachers, and diplomats (including employees of international organizations) as NRAs unless they intend permanently to reside here. The bill treats certain individuals as NRAs if they are teachers, students, or diplomats at all times when present here. An individual present for 183 days on a diplomatic visa and one day on a tourist visa would be a resident for the year.	The ten-day exception would not apply to green card holders.
4. Treatment of certain related party transactions (sec. 492)	Applies the present law rules denying losses between related parties to transactions between controlled corporations (using a 50-percent control test).	Delete the intent exception. All these individuals would be NRAs. Days present as a teacher, student, or diplomat would not count as days of presence (against the 183-day test). Would not apply to transactions with a controlled DISC.

Title VI--Technical Corrections
1. Alternative minimum tax (sec. 611(a))	TEFRA provided that income from limited partnership interests, etc. is investment income for purposes of computing the amount of "below the line" interest allowed in computing the minimum tax.	Clarify that this rule applies whether or not the deductions from the limited partnership interest exceeds the income.
2. TRAC leases (sec. 612(d))	The bill made the TRAC provision of TEFRA inapplicable where the lessee treated itself as the owner for tax purposes.	The provision in the bill would apply only where the lessee treated itself as the owner (for some or all tax purposes) and the lessor did not treat itself as the owner.
3. Section 304--Related corporation transactions (sec. 612(k))	The bill provides that the assumption of liabilities by a corporation of acquisition debt to a related party may give rise to dividend treatment.	It would be clarified that this rule would not apply where the creditor had terminated its interest in the corporation (under rules similar to the rules relating to redemptions); the provision in the bill would not apply to transactions before October 21, 1983.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
4. Targeted jobs credit	Present law is unclear as to whether a qualified summer youth or a cooperative education youth who continues to work for the same employer, after the summer, as a member of another targeted group is required to submit to a second determination of whether the youth is economically disadvantaged.	The original determination that a qualified summer youth or cooperative education youth is economically disadvantaged would continue to be valid with respect to the eligibility of the individual as a member of another targeted group, if the individual continues to work for the same employer.
5. Subchapter S
(a). Post-termination period deduction (Code sec. 1371(e))	Present law allows tax-free cash distributions during a "post-termination" period.	Allow corporations to elect to make taxable distributions during this period.
(b). Application of corporate preference rules to S corporations (Code sec. 291)	Section 291 is inapplicable to S corporations.	Apply section 291 to S corporations during the first 3 years after change of status from C corporation status.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
(c). Accounting for year election terminates. (Code sec. 1362(e) (2))	Present law provides a pro-rata allocation of income for the full year in which an election terminates unless shareholders consent to closing the books.	Make the pro-rata allocation inapplicable where more than 50 percent of stock is sold or exchanged during termination year.
(d). Accumulated adjustments amount (Code sec. 1368)	Present law provides for tax-free distributions to extent of amount in an "accumulated adjustments account," which is essentially an amount equal to undistributed income.	Clarify that the account could be negative; all distributions during the year would reduce the account proportionately; and the account could be reduced by non-deductible expenses other than those related to producing tax-exempt income
6. Certain Leased Employees	If a business uses "leased" employees, then the leased employees are generally treated as employees of the business in testing whether a pension plan of the business meets the nondiscrimination standards for tax qualification. A safe harbor exception is provided if the leasing company has a pension plan that meets special standards. Recently, some businesses have taken the position that the exception applies to their own, common-law employees if those employees are nominally employed by a leasing company.	The safe harbor for leased employees could be clarified to indicate that a common-law employee of a business must be taken into account as an employee of the business without regard to the safe harbor rule.

Item	House Bill	Suggested Change
Title VI--Technical Corrections
Coverage of Federal Employees with Breaks in Service (bill secs. 641 and 643)	Requires social security coverage for employees entering or re-entering civilian Federal service after military service	Limit amendment so that civilian employees not previously under social security can serve in the military and return to civil service without changing their status as CSRS participants;
	Current law also requires social security coverage after a year break in service for Federal employees even if that employment was a tour of duty on behalf of the Federal government(i.e. in international organizations)	Allow service for international organiza- tions to count as non-covered service, to prevent unintended disruption in Federal pension system status

SOCIAL SECURITY TECHNICAL AMENDMENTS TO H.R. 4170

Item	Present Law	Suggested Change
Title VI--Technical Corrections Coverage of legislative branch employees (bill sec. 641(j))	Allows Congressional staff to be exempt from either CSRS or OASDI coverage if withdraw from CSRS after Dec. 31, 1983 Exempts from OASDI coverage only those legislative branch employees actually covered by CSRS on Dec. 31, 1983, whether in Congressional or executive branch employment, or as CSRS annuitants	Requires coverage under one plan or the other if re-enter legislative branch employment within 365 days; OASDI coverage is required if break is longer than 365 days Conforms treatment of those covered by non-CSRS Federal retirement systems (e.g. State Dept., CIA) to that of employees and annuitants covered by CSRS

Title VI--Technical Corrections . Congressional Panel on Social Security Organization (bill sec. 642)	Reimbursement for panel members for travel and compensation per day is not allowed under current law, contrary to specific language in P.L. 98-21	Allows travel expenses to be paid according to Senate procedures; allows panel members to be paid if they are re-employed annuitants

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
Title VII--Tax-Exempt Bonds
1. Exception from volume cap for certain bonds	The Committee bill imposes a $150 per capita volume cap on the IDBs and student loan bonds that a State can issue during any year. A Committee amendment to the bill provides an exception to the volume cap in the case of bonds to finance multi-family housing.	The proposal is to provide another exception to the volume cap for bonds which meet the following requirements: (1) the bond proceeds are used to finance convention or trade show facilities, airports, docks, wharves, or mass commuting facilities; and (2) the facilities are owned by a governmental unit (i.e., no cost recovery deductions or tax credits are allowable with respect to the facilities).

------	----------------	------------------

2. Repeal of advance refunding of certain IDBs

IDBs for convention or trade show facilities, airports, docks, wharves, mass commuting facilities, or parking facilities may be advance refunded.

Prohibit advance refunding of such facilities.

Effective date.--Refunding bonds issued after the date of enactment.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
3. Exception for multi-family housing from volume cap	The Committee amendment provided that IDBs issued to finance multi-family housing projects which meet the Internal Revenue Code rules are exempt from the volume cap. Other provisions of the Committee amendment require multi-family housing projects financed under section 11(b) of the Housing Act to comply with the Code rules.	The proposed amendment would clarify that the volume cap would not apply to any public housing program obligation under section 11(b) of the Housing Act.
4. Preference in volume cap for projects in process	The Committee amendment provides priority in the use of the $150 volume cap for projects which received an inducement resolution prior to October 19, 1983.	The proposed amendment would limit the priority rule to projects which received an inducement resolution after December 31, 1982, and before October 19, 1983.
5. Exception for multi-family housing to Federal guarantee rule	The Committee amendment provided that IDBs issued to finance multi-family housing which meet the rules of the Internal Revenue Code would not be subject to the restriction on combining tax-exempt financing with Federal guarantees. Other provisions of the Committee amendment require multi-family housing projects financed under section 11(b) of the Housing Act to be comply with the Code rules.	The proposed amendment would clarify that the Federal guarantee rule would not apply to a public housing program obligation under section 11(b) of the Housing Act.

Item	Committee Bill	Suggested Change
6. Exception for certain organizations from Federal guarantee rule	The Committee amendment provides exceptions from the rule prohibiting the combination of tax-exempt financing and Federal guarantee to guarantees by the Federal Housing Administration, the Veterans' Administration, and any guarantee of student loans.	The proposed amendment would provide additional exceptions to the Federal guarantee rule in the case of the Federal National Mortgage Association, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, the Government National Mortgage Association, and the Student Loan Market Association.
7. Exception to use of IDBs to finance existing facilities where rehabilitation occurs	The Committee amendment provides an exception to the rule which prohibits IDBs to be used to finance existing facilities in connection with the acquisition of a building where there are rehabilitation expenses of at least 15% of the combined cost of the building and rehabilitation.	The proposed amendment would clarify that the rehabilitation expenses need not be financed from the proceeds of the tax-exempt bond, that the rehabilitation expenses must be incurred by the person acquiring the building, and that the rehabilitation expenses must occur within 2 years of the later of the date of acquisition or the date the obligations are issued.
8. Exception for Multi-family housing to arbitrage rules	The Committee amendment provided that IDBs issued to finance multi-family housing projects which meet the Internal Revenue Code rules are exempt from the arbitrage rules applicable to single-family housing bonds. Other provisions of the Committee amendment require multi-family housing projects financed under section 11(b) of the Housing Act to comply with the Code rules.	The proposed amendment would clarify that the arbitrage rules would not apply to a public housing program obligation under section 11(b) of the Housing Act.

Title VIII-Miscellaneous
1. Death of military and civilian employees.	A committee amendment provided relief for military and civilian employees dying as the result of injuries sustained overseas.	This provision would be deleted because it passed the House as separate legislation (H.R. 4206).

Item

Committee Bill

Suggested Change

2. Capital gains treatment for portion of gain on condominium conversions.

Capital gain treatment is available for appreciation in value of qualifying condominium units prior to determination date, reduced by depreciation recapture.

Determination date is earliest of

(1) day on which taxpayer adopted a conversion plan,

(2) day on which substantial improvements were first made in anticipation of conversion, or

(3) day on which form of ownership changed to condominium units.

No change.

Alternative 1: Determination date would be day on which taxpayer adopted a conversion plan only if such date was not more than 2 years earlier than (2) or (3) at left.

Alternative 2: Determination date would be day on which taxpayer adopted a conversion plan and converted 10 percent of units, otherwise (if earlier) (2) or (3) at left.

b. Allocations of partnership losses	The 1976 Act prohibited retroactive allocation of partnership deductions to partners entering late in the year by requiring each partner's various interests during the year to be taken into account in determining his distributive share of partnership items. It may be possible to avoid the 1976 retroactive allocation rules through the use of tiered partnerships or, in the case of cash method partnerships, by delay of actual payments. To the extent a loss allocated to a partner exceeds his basis in the partnership, the loss is not deductible. A limited partner's basis includes his share of non-recourse debt of the partnership. In Raphan v. 2. Use of partnerships to convert character of income or to defer income a. Character of gain or loss on contributed property	Present law provides that if certain ordinary income property of a partnership is distributed to a partner, its character as ordinary income property is preserved in the hands of the distributee for 5 years. No comparable rule applies to property contributed to a partnership. Thus, it may be possible to change the character of property from ordinary income to capital gain or from capital loss to ordinary loss through a contribution to a partnership.	If unrealized receivables are contributed to a partnership, their ordinary income character would be preserved in the hands of the partnership. If inventory is contributed to a partnership, its ordinary income character would be preserved in the hands of the partnership for 5 years. Also, if a capital asset with a value less than its basis (i.e., a built-in loss) is contributed to a partnership, that loss would be treated as a capital loss if recognized by the partnership within 5 years. Effective date.--Property contributed after April 1, 1984.	Effective date.--Property contributed after March 31, 1984.

	Basis strips Present law permits partnerships to elect to increase the basis of their assets by the amount of any basis that is "lost" when a distributee partner's basis in his interest is substituted for the basis of distributed property. Thus, a partnership distributing high basis property to a low basis partner will experience an increase in the basis of its other property, but the distributee partner will lose basis and be exposed to be exposed to greater gain if the distributed property is sold. This result can be avoided by contributing the high basis property to a lower tier partnership which has not elected to make basis adjustments on contributions, and by distributing the partnership interest to the low basis partner. The result is that the partnership property of the first partnership will experience a basis increase without reducing the basis in the contributed property.		Eliminate the elective basis adjustment for distributions of interests in partnerships that have not elected to make basis adjustments. Effective date--Distributions after date of Committee action.

b. Extraordinary dividends received by corporations	Dividends received by a corporation generally have no effect on its basis in the stock of the distributing corporation. As a result, a corporation can buy stock for $100, receive a $15 extraordinary dividend on it, and then in short order sell the stock for $85. While some portion (generally 15 percent) of the $15 dividend will be taxed as ordinary income to the recipient corporation, the transaction, which has no economic consequences, will also generate $15 of short-term capital loss on the sale of the stock. This is an attractive transaction for corporations that have capital gains which can be sheltered by the loss on the sale of stock.	If a corporate shareholder does not hold stock for at least one year, the fair market value of any extraordinary dividend (to the extent not subject to tax) would reduce its basis in the stock. Extraordinary dividends would include dividends received within any 90-day period with a fair market value equal to or greater than 10 percent (five percent in the case of preferred stock) of the taxpayer's basis in the stock. Extraordinary dividends would also include dividends received within any one-year period with a fair market value equal to or greater than 20 percent of the taxpayer's basis in the stock (common or preferred).	An exception for non-deep-in-the money covered calls could be made for purposes of the holding period rule.

b. Decontrol of foreign corporations	Under section 1248, when a U.S. taxpayer who is a 10-percent shareholder of a controlled foreign corporation sells or exchanges stock in a taxable transaction, the gain is treated as ordinary (dividend) income to the extent of the shareholder's pro rata share of the corporation's post-1962 accumulated earnings and profits. A U.S. corporation that disposes of stock by distributing it as a dividend-in-kind or in the course of liquidation, in a transaction eligible for nonrecognition treatment to the U.S. corporation, is also required to include in income its share of post-1962 accumulated earnings and profits. Taxpayers have taken the position that section 1248 does not apply if a controlled foreign corporation that is wholly owned by a U.S. corporation issues new shares for shares of the U.S. corporation. If this position were sustained, such a transaction could lead to permanent exemption from U.S. corporate tax of the earnings of the controlled foreign corporation accumulated prior to the exchange.	Certain exchanges by a controlled foreign corporation of its newly issued stock for shares of its U.S. parent corporation would be treated as a sale or exchange by the U.S. parent of stock in the controlled foreign corporation. Effective date.--Date of enactment. Revenue effect.-- Fiscal Years, 1984-87 [Billions of Dollars] <table border="1"> <thead> <tr> <th>1984</th> <th>1985</th> <th>1986</th> <th>1987</th> <th>84-87</th> </tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td></td> <td></td> <td></td> <td></td> <td>*</td> </tr> </tbody> </table>	1984	1985	1986	1987	84-87	*	*	*	*	*

c. Recharacterization of U.S. income as foreign income	The United States insists on taxing the "U.S. income" of U.S. taxpayers. U.S. taxpayers' "foreign income" can be free of U.S. tax, under the foreign tax credit. U.S. taxpayers can place the "foreign" label on some U.S. income (such as interest and insurance premiums) by routing it through a foreign corporation. This foreign corporation distributes "foreign" dividends to its U.S. owners. This newly "foreign" income may escape U.S. (or foreign) tax.		The proposal would prevent re-labelling of U.S. income as foreign. If a corporation, 10 percent (or more) of whose gross income is U.S. income (including U.S. business income), pays interest or dividends to a U.S. taxpayer, a pro rata portion of the payment would be U.S. income. Thus, if 75 percent of a corporation's gross income is U.S. income (over a three-year period), 75 percent of the dividends and interest it pays U.S. income. It would apply only to 50-percent U.S.-owned corporations. Effective date.--The proposal would apply to income earned by paying corporations after date of enactment. Revenue effect.-- NA

d. Recharacterization of interest income as dividend income	A U.S. taxpayer's foreign interest income cannot escape both U.S. and foreign tax (under the United States' separate foreign tax credit limitation that prevents foreign taxes on non-interest income from offsetting U.S. tax on foreign interest income). U.S. taxpayers seek to circumvent this rule by creating foreign subsidiaries to earn foreign interest income (for example, by depositing money in foreign banks). When the U.S. taxpayer is taxable on the earnings of its foreign subsidiary, its income is dividend income, not interest income. Thus, newly recharacterized "non-interest" income may totally escape both U.S. and foreign tax.		The committee could treat foreign dividends as interest to the extent that the paying corporation's earnings and profits arise from interest. This rule would apply only if 10 percent or more of the paying corporation's earnings and profits arise from interest. It would apply only to 50-percent U.S.-owned corporations. Effective date.--The proposal would apply to income earned by paying corporations after the date of enactment. Revenue effect.-- Fiscal Years, 1984-87 [Billions of Dollars] <table border="1"> <thead> <tr> <th>1984</th> <th>1985</th> <th>1986</th> <th>1987</th> <th>84-87</th> </tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td></td> <td></td> <td>*</td> <td>.1</td> <td>.1</td> </tr> </tbody> </table>	1984	1985	1986	1987	84-87	*	*	*	.1	.1

e. Use of territories to avoid U.S. tax on foreign investors	Payments of U.S. source interest, dividends, and other passive income to foreign investors are generally subject to a 30-percent U.S. withholding tax. The United States does not tax payments of passive income to corporations organized in Guam, the Northern Mariana Islands, or the U.S. Virgin Islands. Some argue that foreigners who wish to invest in the United States may avoid both U.S. and territorial tax by channeling their investments through conduit corporations in these territories. Temporary Treasury regulations subject dividends and interest paid by territorial conduit corporations to territorial withholding tax. Guam is contesting these regulations in court.		Interest, dividends, and other passive income paid from U.S. sources to corporations organized in Guam, the Marianas, or the Virgin Islands could be subject to U.S. tax unless the bulk of the recipient's gross income is from its territory and unless the bulk of its beneficial owners are local residents. Effective date.--Payments after date of Committee action Revenue effect.-- Fiscal Years, 1984-87 [Billions of Dollars] <table border="1"> <thead> <tr> <th>1984</th> <th>1985</th> <th>1986</th> <th>1987</th> <th>84-87</th> </tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td></td> <td></td> <td>*</td> <td>.1</td> <td>.2</td> </tr> </tbody> </table>	1984	1985	1986	1987	84-87	*	*	*	.1	.2

g. Foreign collapsible corporations	Sales of inventory yield ordinary income, not capital gain. "Collapsible" corporations' assets generally include inventory. Generally, a shareholder's gain on the sale or liquidation of a collapsible corporation is ordinary income rather than capital gain. However, if a collapsible corporation consents to recognize ordinary income on disposition of its inventory and the like, the shareholder gets capital gain treatment on the sale or liquidation of the corporation. Some take the position that a foreign corporation can give consent to recognize ordinary income. 1. Deferred payment transactions (a) Time for inclusion or deduction of deferred interest.	In general, in a discount lending transaction (where all or a portion of the interest is not payable currently), the borrower is treated as having paid, and the lender as having received, the annual unpaid interest, which was then relented to the borrower. This matches the interest inclusion by the lender with the interest deduction by the borrower. The original issue discount (OID) rules do not apply to obligations issued in exchange for property where neither the obligation nor the property is publicly traded; to obligations issued by individuals; as to holders of discount obligations, to obligations not held as capital assets; or to deferred payments for services or use of property.	Extend the OID rules to obligations issued for nontraded property, issued for services or use of property, issued by individuals, and not held as capital assets. The interest element in obligations issued for nontraded property, services, or use of property would be compared to a test rate. The test (safe harbor) rate would be 120 percent of an average yield on Federal obligations of similar maturity (the "applicable Federal rate"). This yield would be redetermined semiannually for 3 categories of maturities (short-, medium-, and long-term). If interest were not paid at least at this rate, interest would be imputed at a rate equal to 130 percent of the applicable Federal rate and annually included in the income of the lender and deducted by the borrower. The Secretary would be authorized to require any lender disposing of an OID obligation within these rules to provide adequate information such that the transferee could determine his taxable income. Exceptions to these rules would be provided for sale of principal residences, certain sales of farms, and sales involving total payments of $250,000 or less. Effective date.--Transactions entered into after December 31, 1984.	Apply a test rate equal to 110 percent of the applicable Federal rate, and impute interest at a rate of 120 percent of the Federal rate if the test rate is not satisfied. Clarify application of OID with respect to nonresident aliens.

(b) Measurement of interest in deferred payment transactions.	If the parties to a deferred payment sale fail to state interest at a safe-harbor rate fixed by regulation, interest is imputed at a higher rate fixed by regulation. The safe-harbor rate is a simple interest rate; the imputed rate is a compound rate. Imputed interest is allocated among deferred payments in proportion to the amount of the payment, without regard to the period of time that has elapsed since the sale.	The adequacy of the interest element in a deferred payment sale would be tested against a self-adjusting compound rate of interest which approximates a market rate. This test (safe-harbor) rate would be the same rate applied under the proposed amendments to the OID rules: 120 percent of the applicable Federal rate. If insufficient interest were stated, interest would be imputed at a rate equal to 130 percent of the applicable Federal rate. Interest income would be recognized by the lender and interest expense would be deducted by the borrower on an economic accrual basis according to the taxpayer's normal method of accounting. Effective date.--Transactions entered into after December 31, 1984. Revenue effect. Fiscal Years, 1984-87 [Billions of Dollars] <table border="1"> <thead> <tr> <th>1984</th> <th>1985</th> <th>1986</th> <th>1987</th> <th>84-87</th> </tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td>.2</td> <td>.6</td> <td>1.0</td> <td>1.4</td> <td>3.2</td> </tr> </tbody> </table>	1984	1985	1986	1987	84-87	.2	.6	1.0	1.4	3.2	Provide a safe harbor rate of 110 percent of the applicable Federal rate and an imputed rate of 120 percent of the applicable Federal rate. Effective date.--The changes requiring computation of interest on a compound basis and which allocate interest to payments on an economic accrual basis would apply to transactions entered into after the date of Committee action, except those subject to a binding commitment on that date. E. DEBT OBLIGATIONS ACQUIRED AT A DISCOUNT

Item	Present Law	Administration Proposal	Possible Modifications and Other Proposals
1. Debt obligations acquired at a discount a. Market discount	Market discount serves as a substitute for coupon interest. However, upon the disposition of a market-discount bond issued by a corporation or a governmental unit and held for more than one year, capital gain treatment is accorded to the appreciation in value attributable to market discount. When a taxpayer borrows the funds used to purchase a market-discount bond, interest on the acquisition indebtedness generally can be deducted currently against ordinary income. Thus, a taxpayer who leverages the purchase of a market-discount bond effectively converts ordinary income to capital gain.	Gain on the redemption or sale of a market-discount bond would be recognized as interest income to the extent of accrued market discount. Taxpayers could elect to accrue the discount under an economic accrual formula or under a less complex, but also less generous, linear formula. The proposal would not apply to tax-exempt obligations. Effective date.--Bonds issued on or after date of enactment. Revenue effect.-- Fiscal Years, 1984-87 [Billions of Dollars] <table border="1"> <thead> <tr> <th>1984</th> <th>1985</th> <th>1986</th> <th>1987</th> <th>84-87</th> </tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td>0.2</td> <td>0.7</td> <td>0.1</td> <td>0.1</td> <td>1.0</td> </tr> </tbody> </table> * * * * *	1984	1985	1986	1987	84-87	0.2	0.7	0.1	0.1	1.0	Interest deductions allocable to indebtedness incurred to purchase or carry a market-discount bond would be deferred, to the extent such interest exceeds interest income from the bonds. Effective date.--Obligations acquired after date of enactment. Revenue effect.-- Fiscal Years, 1984-87 [Billions of Dollars] <table border="1"> <thead> <tr> <th>1984</th> <th>1985</th> <th>1986</th> <th>1987</th> <th>84-87</th> </tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td>0.2</td> <td>0.7</td> <td>0.1</td> <td>0.1</td> <td>1.0</td> </tr> </tbody> </table> Note: This estimate represents the combined effects of this proposal as well as the proposal G-1(c) concerning short-term obligations issued at a discount.	1984	1985	1986	1987	84-87	0.2	0.7	0.1	0.1	1.0

b. Zero coupon municipal bonds	Original issue discount on noninterest-bearing obligations issued by a municipality is exempt from tax under the general rule of section 103(a). Under Internal Revenue Service rulings, tax-exempt original issue discount is apportioned ratably among the original holder and subsequent purchasers of a bond. The application of this rule permits the holder of a zero coupon municipal bond to generate an artificial loss by disposing of the bond prior to maturity.	No proposal.	Tax-exempt original issue discount would be accrued under an economic accrual formula. c. Certain short-term obligations issued at a discount	For governmental obligations (Treasury bills) issued at a discount and payable without interest at a fixed maturity not exceeding one year, the acquisition discount is not considered to accrue until the obligation is paid at maturity or otherwise disposed of. This rule applies regardless of whether the taxpayer uses the accrual or the cash method of accounting. A similar rule applies to cash-basis taxpayers who hold other obligations with a maturity of one year or less (e.g., bank certificates of deposit). Taxpayers who make leveraged purchases of obligations eligible for the special rules are able to defer tax liability on unrelated income.	No proposal.	To deal with leveraged purchases of short-term discount obligations, interest deductions on indebtedness incurred to purchase or carry such obligations would be deferred until the interest on the obligations is included in income. The committee may also wish to review the scope of the provision that permits tax deferral on Treasury bills. Under present law, tax deferral is available to all taxpayers. One possibility would be to require accrual-basis taxpayers and cash-basis taxpayers who acquire Treasury bills in the course of a trade or business to account for the acquisition discount on the accrual basis, regardless of whether the Treasury bill is debt-financed. If this rule were adopted, taxpayers could be permitted to spread the payment of any net tax liability over a 10 year period. Effective date.--Obligations acquired after date of enactment. Revenue effect.-- See item G-1(a).

2. Income from factoring trade receivables	A seller who sells goods for the buyer's receivable (a transferable debt) may sell that receivable to a third party--a factor--at a discount. If a U.S.-owned factor is in a tax haven, it may earn income free of U.S. tax. That income may be eligible for deferral, and it may be foreign-source income that is sheltered by excess foreign tax credits. When a foreign subsidiary of a U.S. corporation invests in U.S. property (for example, by lending funds to its U.S. parent), that investment is taxable as a dividend to the U.S. parent. Some taxpayers allege that this rule does not apply to a foreign factoring subsidiary that buys receivables from its U.S. parent.	When a foreign factoring subsidiary of a U.S. owner gets cash for a receivable that (1) it bought from a related person, and (2) the related person had taken in exchange for inventory, tax the U.S. owner on that factoring income. Treat income from a related U.S. person's receivables as U.S. income. Treat payments of cash from a foreign subsidiary to a related U.S. person for receivables arising from the U.S. person's sales of inventory as investments in U.S. property. 5. Mortgage interest reporting	No informational reports are required with respect to amounts deductible by individual taxpayers who itemize their deductions.	None.	Require persons (including governmental units) who receive mortgage interest payments in the course of a trade or business to report annually to the IRS the amount of the interest, and the person from whom the payment is received. The payor would have to be provided a copy of the report. Payments aggregating less than $600 would be exempt. Penalties.--Same as those for other information returns (generally $50 per failure). Effective date.--Payments after December 31, 1984.
6. Sales or exchanges of partnership interests	When a partnership interest is sold or exchanged, the transferred partner may have reportable gain or loss. In addition, if the value received is attributable to appreciated inventory or unrealized receivables that could produce ordinary income if sold by the partnership, the transferor will be treated as having realized ordinary income.	None.	When partnership interests are sold or exchanged, require the partnership to inform the IRS, the seller and the buyer of the fair market value of the allocable share of unrealized receivables and inventory. Penalties.--Same as for the information returns (generally $50 per failure). Effective date.--Sales or exchanges after December 31, 1984.

1. Welfare Benefit Plans a. Employer deductions	Generally, an employer's contribution to a fund which is part of a welfare benefit plan is deductible in the year the contribution is made, even though the benefits for which the contribution is used may not be paid to the employee for many years. This is similar to the tax treatment of contributions to a qualified pension plan, which is subject to many more requirements than a welfare plan. Contributions for post-retirement medical benefits of qualified plans are not taken into account in computing whether benefits under those plans satisfy the prescribed limits. An accrual method taxpayer may accrue vacation pay that is payable before the close of the succeeding taxable year, even though it will not be paid until a much later year.		Generally, an employer's deduction for a contribution to a funded welfare benefit plan would be allowed at the same time and in the same amount as if the benefit were provided directly by the employer under an unfunded plan. In addition, for certain insurance-type benefits, a deduction would be allowed for an addition to a reserve, which generally would be limited to 50 percent of the average annual payments for these benefits during the past 3 years; higher reserves would be allowed in certain cases. Contributions for post-retirement medical benefits provided under a qualified pension plan to owners of more than 5 percent of the employer would be considered as a plan contribution for purposes of applying the limits. An accrual method taxpayer could deduct the amount necessary so that its vacation pay account is the amount reasonably expected to be paid before the end of the succeeding year. Effective date.--Contributions made after March 31, 1984.

1. Welfare Benefit Plans (cont.) b. Tax-exempt funding	A tax-exempt supplemental unemployment benefit trust or voluntary employees' beneficiary association (VEBA) may be established and maintained by an employer as a funding medium for welfare benefits. Traditionally, VEBAs have been used by employee organizations to provide life, health, accident, disability, and unemployment benefits and to provide customary recreational facilities. A VEBA may not be used by an employer to fund deferred compensation, but VEBAs have been used recently to accumulate deductible funds set aside to provide severance pay to the operator of a professional corporation.		The rules providing for benefits permitted to be paid from a VEBA would be clarified to exclude deferred compensation benefits essentially equivalent to wages. The rules requiring notice to the IRS of a claim of exempt status for a benefit organization would be clarified. The investment income of a benefit organization would be subject to the tax on unrelated business income to the extent assets exceed permitted levels, and contributions of property from an employer to a related exempt benefit organization would be treated as a transaction between related parties. Effective date.--Taxable years beginning after December 31, 1984.

Discrimination rules for plans of exempt benefit organizations	A VEBA is subject to standards that forbid discrimination in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, or highly compensated. The rules are not clearly defined.		The rules prohibiting discrimination would be clarified. If a benefit is of a type for which nondiscrimination is required as a condition of an exclusion of gross income, the exempt organization could provide the benefit only if the benefit conforms to the specified standard. Other benefits could not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees as to eligibility or benefit level. Also, a benefit for highly-paid, etc., employees could not exceed 25 percent of the benefit provided to all employees. Effective date.--Taxable years beginning after December 31, 1984.

3. Pension plans consisting only of employee contributions	Nondeductible contributions may be made by an employee under a qualified pension plan or tax-sheltered annuity (within limits) and may generally be withdrawn without penalty by the employee at any time permitted by the plan. The investment earnings on nondeductible employee contributions are not taxed until distributed. If a distribution occurs before pension benefits start, the employee contributions, withdrawals of which are tax free, are considered to be distributed before any taxable income. Recently, some employers have adopted qualified retirement plans under which all contributions are made by employees. These plans permit withdrawals to be made by check or credit cards at any time. The plans often are regarded as checking accounts with tax-free investment income.		A pension plan substantially all of the accrued benefits of which are attributable to employee contributions would not be considered to be a qualified plan. Effective date.--Plan years beginning after March 31, 1984.

4. Nondiscrimination rules for cash-or-deferred arrangements	Under a cash-or-deferred arrangement (a Sec. 401(k) plan), discrimination is measured by comparing tax-free elective deferrals by the highest paid 1/3 of employees with the deferrals by the other employees. In some cases, employees with low or moderate pay fall into the upper 1/3 group, which may permit larger deferrals by other members of the top 1/3 group. In addition, despite legislative history indicating a contrary intent, employer social security contributions may be taken into account under a sec. 401(k) plan in testing for discrimination.		Social Security contributions could be excluded in determining whether a cash-or-deferred arrangement is nondiscriminatory. Effective date.--Plan years beginning after December 31, 1984.

1. Avoidance of rules relating to transfers of depreciable property between related taxpayers	In order to prevent tax-motivated transactions, transfers between related parties often receive special treatment under the Internal Revenue Code. One provision provides that a transferor will be treated as receiving ordinary income rather than capital gain on the transfer of property to a related party when that property is depreciable property in the hands of the transferee (section 1239). The courts have held that the transfer of a patent application as opposed to a patent does not fall within this anti-abuse rule because the application itself is not depreciable property (Lan Jen Chu v. Commissioner, 486 F.2d 696 (1st Cir., 1973)). However, once the application is granted, the transferee can depreciate the resulting patent.		The provision of the Code relating to gains from the sale of depreciable property between related parties (section 1239) could be amended to treat a patent application as depreciable property, thus requiring that any gain recognized to the transferee be treated as ordinary income rather than capital gain. That provision could also be broadened to cover sales between a taxpayer and a trust in which the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse have a beneficial interest (other than a remote contingent interest). Effective date.--Transfers after date of Committee action. Revenue effect.-- Fiscal Years, 1984-87 [Billions of Dollars] <table border="1"> <thead> <tr> <th>1984</th> <th>1985</th> <th>1986</th> <th>1987</th> <th>84-87</th> </tr> </thead> <tbody> <tr> <td>*</td> <td>.1</td> <td>.2</td> <td>.3</td> <td>.6</td> </tr> </tbody> </table>	1984	1985	1986	1987	84-87	*	.1	.2	.3	.6

1. Straddles in stock options.	The tax straddle rules require the deferral of losses from certain actively traded personal property or positions in such property, to the extent the taxpayer has unrecognized gain at the close of the taxable year on offsetting positions. Positions are offsetting if there is a substantial diminution in the risk of loss from holding one position because the taxpayer holds the other position. Stock and stock options traded on U.S. exchanges that have an exercise period less than the minimum long-term capital gain holding period are excluded from the loss deferral and other straddle rules. Because the long-term holding period is one year and exchange traded options have a maximum exercise period of approximately nine months, all such options are excluded from the straddle rules.	For investors (other than professional options traders or market makers) apply the loss-deferral rule to straddles consisting of offsetting positions in exchange-traded stock options or stock and an offsetting stock option position, with an exception for covered call options that are not deep-in-the-money. In addition, the holding period of stock would not run if the taxpayer grants an in-the-money option to buy stock held by the taxpayer. Effective date.--Positions established after October 31, 1983.	Extend the loss deferral rule to any straddle involving stock, except a straddle all of the legs of which are stocks. In lieu of altering the holding period of optioned stock, recharacterize any long-term gain on the stock to the extent of any short-term loss on the option.

2. Market makers. (a) Characterization of gains and losses	Options traders on security exchanges.--Gain or loss from transactions in options written or acquired by options market makers (or professional options traders) are treated as ordinary income or loss. Commodity traders.--Historically, professional commodity traders have been treated as realizing capital gain or loss from their transactions. For commodity traders, each regulated futures contract held at the end of the taxable year is treated as if it were disposed of at its fair market value, and any gain or loss is taxed as if it were 60 percent long-term and 40 percent short-term, resulting in a maximum tax rate of 32%.	Tax options market makers (or professional options traders) under a mark-to-market system. Tax rates currently applicable to options professionals (a maximum rate of 50 percent) would be retained. Effective date.--Positions established after the date of enactment.	Extend the 32-percent maximum tax rate available to professional commodity traders to professional options traders. Provide expressly that both professional options traders and professional commodity traders are to be treated as buying and selling capital assets.

(b) Hedging exemption	Options market makers are exempted from the tax straddle rules with respect to transactions entered into for the purpose of maintaining hedged positions. Moreover, an options trader is considered to be a dealer in property subject to the option.	No proposal.	Provide that the hedging exemption would not apply to options traders unless they are dealers with respect to the underlying property. For all persons who claim the hedging exemption, limit the deductibility of ordinary losses from hedging transactions to income derived in the conduct of the trade or business to which the hedging relates.

3. Mixed straddles	In the case of a straddle consisting of an RFC (gain on which is taxable at a maximum rate of 32 percent) and a non-RFC (gain on which is taxable at a maximum rate of 50 percent), depending on which leg of the straddle generates gain, unrelated short-term capital gain can be converted to long-term capital gain and unrelated long-term capital gain can be converted to short-term capital gain. Treasury is provided with regulatory authority to prevent the conversion of short-term capital gain to long-term capital gain.	No proposal. Regulations have not yet been issued.	Broaden Treasury's regulatory authority to permit correction of inequities.

5, Elections	When the mark-to-market system was enacted, commodity traders were given elections to apply the mark-to-market rules to positions held on or before the date of enactment. Under one provision, taxpayers could elect to apply the rules to all positions held during the taxable year that included the general effective date. If this election was made, any net tax liability could be paid in five equal annual installments, with interest. Under the other provision, taxpayers could elect to apply the rules to all positions held on the general effective date.	No proposal.	Provide transitional rules.
